TREE FARM BULLETIN

Tom and Sharon Bennion

2016 New Mexico Tree Farmers of the Year

By Todd Haines-NMSF Bernalillo District Forester

On a crisp fall day in the Jemez Mountains over 40 Foresters Friends and neighbors gathered to honor Tom and Sharon Bennion for being selected as the 2016 New Mexico Tree Farmers of the Year. The Bennion's have a long history of excellent forest management on their forested property since acquiring it in the mid to late 1970's. The current property is just over 26 acres and has been managed over the years according to their forest management plan. Although acres have been added they keep up with the stewardship of the property. They have also been excellent sources of forestry outreach in the entire Jemez area. One neighbor told another visitor in attendance that when they have questions either about forestry or history in the area they "just call Tom."

Their tree farm is located within the Jemez mountains at elevations of 8,000 feet in the Seven Springs community. The property is comprised of Douglas fir, and ponderosa pine, with a smattering of limber pine, quaking aspen, Engelmann spruce, and Gambel oak. The property hosts a stream with fish in the front yard.

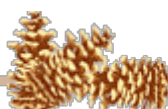

After a brief welcome and introductions of attendees, the group posed for a photo then walked the property while enjoying a history and forestry talk. The property has a rich history and other neighbors were also on hand to answer questions and clarify some of the surrounding history of the area. The forestry efforts were highlighted on the walk with one of the most prominent topics, the amount of understory grasses and other vegetation that came back since the thinning efforts. The area has had some insect issues lately so questions were addressed as to what is happening in the area so the neighbors could have their questions answered and concerns addressed. Both the Tree Farm program and the Back-Yard Tree Farm programs were discussed on the walk.

The lunch was catered by a local restaurant in Jemez Springs "The Stage Stop". The lunch was served in the back yard with the beautiful scenery and warming day to be enjoyed. The Tree Farm Secretary and past president honored the Bennion's with their plaque and certificate to assist with purchasing a new chain saw as the Tree Farm tradition continues. All-in-all it was a wonderful day.

1) WHEN WAS YOUR LAST TREE FARM INSPECTION?

When was the last time your property was inspected by a Tree Farm Inspector? If it has been longer than five years you are overdue. A Tree Farm inspection should be conducted every five years. If it has been longer than five years, you are no longer a "Certified" Tree Farmer and you need to be inspected. As we work towards getting our tree farmers some form of agricultural or "Tree Farm" tax status, it is imperative that we make sure the inspections and management plans for our certified tree farmers are current, concise and correct, with addendums where needed. If you have not had your tree farm inspected in the last 5 years, please call your inspector and set up a date and a time for an inspection. All you need to do is call your Tree Farm Inspector at one of the numbers below and have the coffee pot on when your inspector gets there.
