TREE FARM BULLETIN

NEW MEXICO TREE FARM PROGRAM FALL FIELD DAY

October 15th, 2016 (10:00 AM to 2:00 PM)

Autumn in the woods is teeming with life – human life. Yes, this is in addition to trees and wildlife. The people arrive as families gathering firewood, cowboys rounding up cattle, hunters seeking big game, as well as loggers harvesting timber to supply the local sawmill for the coming months. At this time of year, I always look forward to seeing old friends and meeting new ones. But all this activity also serves to remind me of a legacy that my parents understood. We have a responsibility to see that our forest resources are available to house, clothe, and feed the nation. These hard working people of autumn serve their families, their community, and this nation by harvesting the bounty of the forest. And every year, the American Tree Farm Chapter in each state, honors an individual or family that has done its best to promote a bountiful forest.

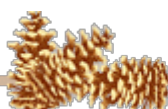

Matthew Silva, Chairman

The New Mexico Tree Farm Committee is pleased to announce that Hart and Utilia Alex have been selected as the 2015 Outstanding Tree Farmer of the Year for New Mexico. An Outstanding Tree Farmer of the Year award is given to a Tree Farmer in recognition of their accomplishments on the ground and within the outreach and education realm.

Hart and Utilia Alex are Outstanding Tree Farmers because they are passionate not only for their own forests but all forests, private and public. Recently, the Alex's have been very fortunate in obtaining funds to purchase additional forested properties.

Hart Alex

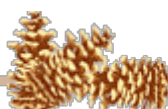

As funds and property become available, they strive to add additional properties to their “to-thin-list”. As a visitor to the Alex Family Forest for the first time in March 2003, I walked up to the edge of their forest and stood silently in amazement to the obvious hard work that Hart and Utilia had put into making their Family Forest what it has become. And now, with the financial resources to obtain additional properties and work their forestry magic one property at a time, their passion will continue. In addition, the word “Foundation” has been discussed and perhaps in the near future additional funds may be available for a wide range of forestry applications. And, the Alex’s have been in contact with New Mexico Highlands University, Department of Natural Resources in an effort to facilitate possible forestry field studies for future forestry students.

Hart and Utilia were honored as New Mexico “Outstanding Tree Farmers of the Year” in 2003, to include a tour of their Family Forest. They also have attended many New Mexico Tree Farm functions including Mora Research Field Day, the Rancho Gascon Demonstration Forest Dedication, the Bosque Demonstration Forest Dedication, Fall Tree Farmers Field Day held near Datil, NM, just to name a few. In connection with Carl Struck (Hart’s neighbor) they participated in local Presentations and Demonstrations: “Celebracion De Culturas/Familia Y Tradiciones” 90 minute walk describing forest management and restoration, wildlife pond construction, carbon sequestration and forest soil building. Hart has also written numerous articles for the local newspaper on forest management or the lack thereof. And, most recently the Alex’s received the “Land Stewardship Award” 2015 from the Taos Soil and Water Conservation District for outstanding commitment to natural resource conservation.

The New Mexico Tree Farm Committee will be celebrating the Alex’s successes at their Family Forest on October 15, 2016 from 10:00am through 2:00pm. Everyone receiving this bulletin is cordially invited to come up and tour the Alex Family Forest and enjoy a day in the forests of Northern New Mexico. Lunch will be provided.
